

COVENTRY COATINGS CORP. RELOCATES OPERATIONS TO NEW FACILITY IN NEWBURGH, NEW YORK

24,000 SQUARE-FOOT BUILDING PURCHASED TO BECOME NEW CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS

NEWBURGH, NY – Coventry Coatings Corp. today announced the purchase of a 24,000 square-foot building in the Town of Newburgh, a major crossroads in New York State’s Orange County. This facility will become home to all of the company’s production, warehouse, research and development, and backoffice operations.

A manufacturer of paint and specialty coatings products for the automotive refinish, heavy equipment, industrial and other markets, the company has already begun to move and expects to be fully operational at its new headquarters by early January.

Coventry Coatings Corp. anticipates it will realize significant operating efficiencies at the Newburgh facility, which is more modern and much larger than its existing home. With additional room for production and warehousing, the company will be better able to take advantage of incremental manufacturing opportunities. Coventry Coatings Corp. also expects to benefit from increased distribution capabilities thanks to the new location’s close proximity to major traffic corridors. The company will shut down its existing plant, warehouse and offices in Garnerville, NY, in the next several weeks.

Established in 1987, Coventry Coatings Corp. is now among the last remaining independent manufacturers of high-quality color automotive paints in the United States, most of which it sells under its flagship brand, Kirker Automotive Finishes. The company also makes a variety of paint and coatings products for specialty and industrial markets, which it sells under its Coventry Coatings and Trylaner brands, and the recently acquired North American Technologies brand. Coventry Coatings Corp. also maintains a significant private label program.
